Warm Sun Is Needed to Put Fenway Park Diamond in Shape for Game

Old Joe Plavins, who quite often makes merry at the expense of baseball fans about to open a new home season, broke up, in the Red Sox-Senators party before it got underway at Fenway Park today.

Joe's day work came Tuesday, but so though a job did do in summing up the playing field at Fenway that the effect of his acts were greatly in evidence this morning, and today, before noon, Red Sox headquarters informed the world that the opening game between Walter Johnson and Allen Russell, et al., will take place tomorrow instead of today.

The Sox, however, got away to flying start in the Fenway grounds, the New Yorks being clear, about the temperature made last winter's Fenway very comfortable. Manager Constant in Page 14, Column 4.

The would-be assassin was Ernesto Valdez, a captain in the Federal army. News of the attempted assassination was suppressed until today.

The message to General Carrillo declared that Valdez, who was in charge of a detachment of troops under General Benjamin G. Hill, tried to stab President Carranza, but that he was overpowered and lodged in a Federal prison.

British Government Said to Have Changed Attitude on Mountjoy Prisoners

By International News Service.
London, April 14.—The Sinn Féin prisoners in the Mountjoy jail at Dublin will be released immediately, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Dublin this afternoon.

The Irish general strike was called as a protest against the British government's treatment of these prisoners. A number of the men now in it was reported this afternoon. Four were said to have collapsed entirely and others were in the last stages of "shagadel."

There was a great demonstration at Dublin today with thousands of persons parading the streets. There were fears of a collision between the crowds and troops, which gathered outside of the Mountjoy jail, but were urged by Archbishop Walsh to return home.

A Honor Law announced in Commons this afternoon that the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland had directed the prison authorities that all persons arrested under the defense of the main act should "receive anti-irritative treatment from the State against them."

This means that the government will not treat political prisoners as criminals. It was such treatment continued on Page 2, Column 5.

The case against Thomas W. Lawson arrested in connection with the advertising of silver stocks, was today continued for one week by Judge Parker in Municipal Court. The continuance was granted at the request of Assistant Attorney-General Harlow, who appeared for Lawson. A letter addressed to the brotherhood chief by John Fitzgerald of Chicago, who was chairman of the street strike national committee, in answer to a published statement by Lawson that he handled the Gary situation, is receiving wide circulation in both the conservative and radical labor press, being quoted in articles and editorials denouncing the Union men's head for his stand. Washington, April 14.—W. G. Lee, head of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, has become a target of attack in labor circles, because of his connection with the street strike and his aid for universal military training.

It is charged in some quarters that Lee's support of his candidate for the street strike national committee, in answer to a published statement by Lawson that he handled the Gary situation, is receiving wide circulation in both the conservative and radical labor press, being quoted in articles and editorials denouncing the Union men's head for his stand. The Standard Oil Company's gasoline, shipping terminals all along the New England coast, one of the largest being at East Boston. The Gulf Company has terminals at Beverly and Providence.

About a three weeks' supply is on hand, executives of these companies stated, that he has a normal amount in storage. Should the strike continue, it could be supplied by motor trucks.

Union Men Say "Outlaws" Will Return to Work in West Thursday

Chicago, April 14.—The switchmen's strike in Chicago will end by Thursday night, breaking the back of the walkout throughout the country, it was declared by the heads of the Big Four Brotherhoods here today.

"After a round of the strikers' camp, I can give the assurance that Thursday, possibly only a day, the 'outlaws' so far as the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, 'The sentiment among the strikers here is overwhelmingly in favor of a return to work.'"

Conditions at the stockyards were reported as having returned to normal, with cars of livestock received today.

Rotarians Hear Edwards
Major-General C. B. Edwards took the place of Major-General Leonard Wood as speaker before the Rotary Club today at the City Club rooms.

BOSTON ON VERGE OF FOOD FAMINE

With coal reserves nearly depleted and shipments from the West and South practically blocked, New England railroads today began to confiscate coal consigned to factories, mills and other industries.

That the railroads would be compelled to confiscate this coal was reported to Governor Coolidge today by his Emergency Food Commission.

Cold storage plants report that Boston is already beginning to live on its reserve food supply.

Food shipments came in today over the Boston & Maine and the Boston & Albany, but in nowhere near large enough quantities. Upon the railroads depends New England's relief from a food famine, the commission declared.

Most shipments from the West have largely declined and the food price will begin to feel next week. If the strike spreads to New England, the commission is ready to establish a motor truck system for the shipment of food and other necessities of life.

Frederic S. Snyder, vice-chairman of the commission, submitted the report to the Governor after a special conference with the railroad officials and other business interests. The report says: "All the railroad lines within New England have practically the full complement of their employees. The difficulties here are due to strike conditions beyond the borders of New England. The strike in itself is entirely unauthorized by any Brotherhood of Railway Employees, and the responsible officers of these labor organizations are co-operating with the railroad management to end unauthorized strikes and consequent violation of contracts existing between railway managers and employees."

"We discussed the strike and I rendered a report," Attorney-General Palmer said. "I can make no further statement at this time, although I may be able to do so later."

Other members of the Cabinet refused to talk.

CABINET TAKES UP RAIL STRIKE

Advance in Pay Considered as Means of Putting an End to Strife
By International News Service.
Washington, April 14.—President Wilson's Cabinet discussed the railroad strike for more than an hour and a quarter today, but no announcement was made at the conclusion of the session as to whether any action had been taken.

"We discussed the strike and I rendered a report," Attorney-General Palmer said. "I can make no further statement at this time, although I may be able to do so later."

Other members of the Cabinet refused to talk.

Under the plan discussed, the Railroad Labor Board, which was confirmed by the Senate, will meet with Attorney-General Palmer and Secretary of Labor Wilson and agree upon a wage adjustment, which will be temporary, but will become effective at once and remain in force.

PERJURY AND FRAUD IN PERJURY CHARGED BY STATE

ALL BUSY SUIT TO ALL

Nevada's Attorney-General Will Begin Attack Tomorrow on Film Star's Separation

CARSON CITY, Nev., April 14.—The suit of the State of Nevada to nullify the divorce granted Mary Pickford from Owen Moore a short time prior to her marriage to Douglas Fairbanks, will be filed in the District Court at Carson City, tomorrow by Attorney-General Leonard B. Taylor, it is announced.

The suit will contend that Mary Pickford did not establish a residence in Nevada in the seven days she was living in the State to obtain the divorce; that fraud and perjury were committed in certain parts of the testimony; and that there was conspiracy and collusion in the bringing of Moore into the divorce suit.

Attorney-General Taylor denied a request of Cavin McLaughlin, attorney for Mrs. Pickford, for permission to file the suit in the District Court at Reno.

There have been plenty of attempts made to bring in evidence to bear on the suit, but it has been found that the facts in the case and present trend to personally before any court action was taken.

Wealthy Commuters Man Locomotives

This photograph taken by the International, shows three residents of Morrisville, N. J., acting as volunteer firemen. Captain Henry Rawle is shown on the lower step. In the cab are John Steadman, vice-president of the Prudential Life Insurance Company, and Alfred Mayne.

By International News Service.

New York, April 14.—The long suffering commuter, satirized in the funny columns and on the stage, gave a remarkable demonstration of his power today by practically "breaking" the strike in the passenger service departments of the Erie and Jersey Central Railroads.

Before noon twenty trains loaded with suburban business men were running into the terminals. All were manned by volunteer firemen, law enforcement officers, and other professionals. One was maneuvered by ex-convicts and was dandied the "A. B. C." special.

Women gathered at the stations along the route waiting for and cheering the volunteers.

Mrs. George Leroy Nelson and Husband Arrested Here on Maine Arson Charge

George Leroy Nelson, an ex-convict, and his wife Mrs. George Leroy Nelson, were arrested here on a charge of arson in connection with the burning of the Maine State House in Bangor, Maine, charged with arson.

It is stated that the couple, after fleeing to Boston from some of the state's police, arrived in Bangor, Maine, on a train on the Maine Central, and were arrested by the Bangor police.

Nelson, who is said to have come from New Sweden, Arden, County, Maine, is about thirty years old and is a resident of the American army in France.

In June, last year, he returned to Bangor, bringing with him a large sum of money, which he used to buy a house in Bangor, Maine, and a car.

Boston American 'Scooped' All on Bonus Bill

The day before yesterday the Boston American "scooped" the country on the bonus bill. It said:

That the compensation would be limited to one dollar a day.

That officers would be excluded from the benefits of the bill.

That only the claims of soldiers and sailors, marines and nurses would be recognized.

That there would be no bond issue.

That the necessary money would be raised from a one per cent. tax on general sales, two-thirds to be used for bonus purposes and the remainder to make up losses resulting from the court decision affecting excess profits taxes.

Today's newspapers announce the report of the committee of Congress comprising all of these features announced exclusively in the Boston American last Monday.

Furthermore, the American carried the glad tidings that the opponents would not be able to defeat the measure in the House.

Why Anglo-French Alliance
Has Already Broken Down

A former Prime Minister of France, M. Barthou, who is likely to be Prime Minister soon again, made a notable speech in the French Chamber of Deputies the other day.

M. Barthou declared that England had played France false ever since the armistice.

At the end of the war the victorious nations stood at the parting of the ways. They could have accepted America's ideals of a just treaty on earth and good will toward men. They could have negotiated a peace in broad daylight and based it upon the enduring foundation of justice and truth.

They could have kept their pledge to America and torn up their secret treaties in which they even exceeded Germany in their brutal imperialism and in disregard for the rights of other nations and in their treacherous conspiracy against their own weaker allies. They could have recognized Burke's great truth that you cannot indict a whole nation. They could have recognized the truth of President Wilson's declaration, to which they had themselves solemnly assented, that we were waging war against the German government and not against the German people.

They could have recognized what they knew to be a fact, that at the beginning of the war the German government deceived the German people into a belief that they were waging a war of self defense upon a jealous world in arms against German prosperity and success. They could have given sanction to the principle of the right of self-determination in Russia, in Hungary, in Austria, in Egypt, in Ireland, Mesopotamia and Shantung, China. And then the settlements of the war would have been as peaceful and would have left as little rancor as the settlements of a political election.

But the victorious nations chose the other way. They chose to revive the old ambitions and old diplomatic methods which had drenched the world in blood. They chose to continue the idea of a balance of power based upon force.

The interests of France and England are already clashing in the near East. The very fact that a responsible French statesman could charge Great Britain with victimizing France is proof of the ephemeral character of all political alliances for mutual gain. The proposed triple alliance between the United States, Great Britain and France is already dead—still born.

Who was it that led the great reaction? Whose statements were most responsible for the return to the old ways, for the rehabilitation of imperialism and of the devil's principle that might makes right? Was it not the French statesmen M. Clemenceau and M. Pichon, the French Foreign Minister?

They preferred the old ways, and Lloyd George can scarcely be blamed for acting in the interests of Great Britain, or, at least, in the interests of the Tory party with which he has been co-habiting. He allowed France to play a game most suitable to British imperialism, though least suited to the interests of France. He apparently understood what the French statesmen apparently did not understand, that the German menace to Great Britain could be absolutely destroyed, but that the German menace to France could not be destroyed.

Germany menaced England only on the sea, the destruction of the German navy, which has already occurred, ends that menace, but the German menace to France cannot be destroyed by force because the nation itself cannot be destroyed, its young men cannot be destroyed.

Our Most Virulent Critic
Now Takes It All Back

When Mr. Wilson sent from Paris the first British draft of the League of Nations, accepted by him fifteen months ago, the Hearst newspapers at once discerned the un-American character of the pact. The American called it not a League of Peace, but a League for War; not a League of Peoples, but a League of Officials.

In the United States Senate at first only three votes were raised against it—Senator Johnson of California, Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri. As late as October 24 last a magazine editor, who is also Vice-President of the League to Enforce Peace, "excoriated Mr. Hearst" before a public mass meeting called to aid Mr. Wilson's pact. After applying to Mr. Hearst every hard name that he could think of, this editor declared:

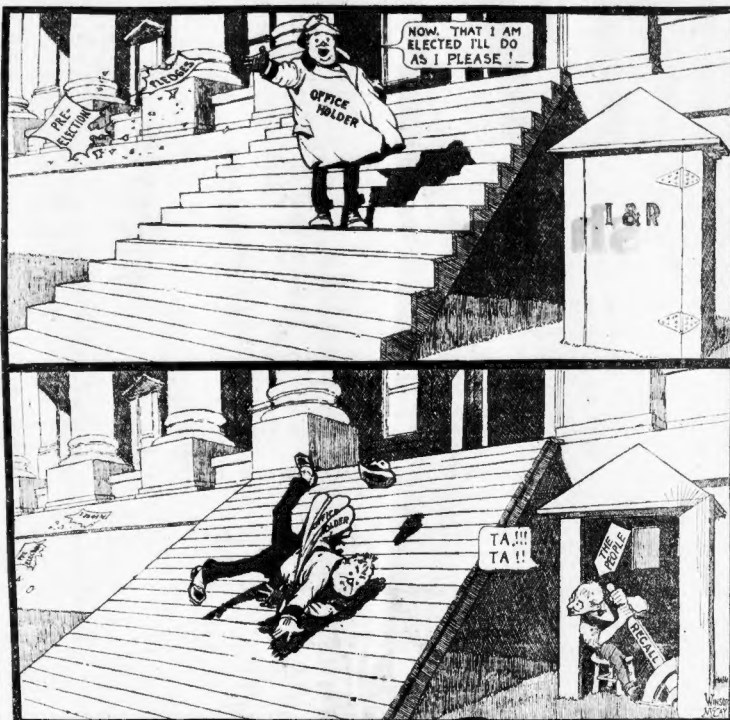

The Hearst papers are the head and front of the opposition to the League of Nations and the Peace Treaty. The great hope of the present situation is the fact that public opinion is fast taking irreconcilable form to compel the Senate to ratify the treaty. The truth is that Mr. Wilson's proposed covenant was killed by discussion. The more it was studied and analyzed the more public opinion turned against it.

Mr. Wilson's own explanation on the stump of the provisions of his own treaty converted nine or ten Democratic Senators from staunch Administration supporters to advocates of American reservations, which Mr. Wilson forbade. We now find our most virulent critic, who a few months ago came at us with knife in hand and feathers in hair to scalp and annihilate us, saying in the leading editorial in his magazine for April:

It is beginning to be quite plain that the new era in international politics cannot have as short a guide as the Fourteen Points. Perhaps it is humanity's fault, perhaps the President's, but which ever it is, it is clear that the Fourteen Points are not a feasible method of dealing with world affairs. A new foreign policy is imperative and a new one must be evolved to take the place of the President's philosophy.

More Truth Than Poetry

If All That We Hear Is True

By S. E. KISER

I BEGIN to feel a yearning to be leaving town and turning
To the scenes where sweet serenity prevails,
Where there are no clashing classes and no restless, mournful masses,
Where the colts begin to kick their curly tails.
I am longing to be straying where the spotted calves are playing.

Where the farmer, who is opulent and free,
Has no time clock that he punches, but gets profits in big hunches
Out of products that the grocer sells to me.

I CAN fancy, while I labor where I do not know my neighbor,
How the playful yearlings elevate their heels,
How the sportive lambs are skipping while their dams are busy nipping

For the purpose of providing them with meals;
And I long to be out yonder, filled with gladness and with wonder.

Seeing how the farmer stands beside his gate,
While his profits, never ceasing, come in wads that keep increasing—

If the stories that the grocers tell are straight.

I AM longing to be going where sweet-scented winds are blowing,
And I'd like to share the gladness that is there,
For the farmer must have leisure for an endless round of pleasure.

As he looks upon his treasure, growing daily without measure—

If the tales the jobbers tell are on the square.

By K. C. B.

MY Dear K. C. B.—For reasons best known to yourself every poor devil has sought solace in your charming "gossip," and having obtained it, has repeated with you the daily "I thank you."

Now, what is so poor as a school teacher? The school teacher who eats the bread and salt of the land? In the name of the thousands of these poor devils, I ask you to put their cause before the public, who after eating a square meal forget all about the square deal. Then there are thousands of little sweet devils who are turned out daily into the streets for lack of teachers. You see, some business men have won the lawless way from their classes, and "now your Jack has none." In the name of these, I beg you to lend a helping hand in our effort to have some legislation enacted which would increase teachers' salaries. And now, K. C. B., if my request looks both brevity and wit, be not hard on me, for, as I said, "What is so poor as a school teacher?" And if you don't help me get my rates I'll have to refuse an invitation to go to the theatre for lack of a decent outfit, and the man will discard me as out of date, and forever I shall have to remain a school teacher.

MY DEAR Sir,
AS MUCH about schools,
AND THE teachers therein,
AS THEY do of their shops,
AND THE men they hire,
TO MAKE the things,
THAT THEY sell for cash.
I KNOW of men
WHO ARE much more interested,
IN MAKING managers,
OF THEIR office boys,
THAN THEY are in the schools,
WHERE THEIR children go.
AND MUCH more interested,
IN THE clerks they have,
THAN THEY are in the teachers,
WHO TEACH their children.
AND I know men
WHO HAVE put up no
TO RAISE the salary,
OF THE football coach,
AND DIDN'T care a hang,
WHAT HAPPENED to the teachers.

MY DEAR Sir,
AS MUCH about schools,
AND THE teachers therein,
AS THEY do of their shops,
AND THE men they hire,
TO MAKE the things,
THAT THEY sell for cash.
I KNOW of men
WHO ARE much more interested,
IN MAKING managers,
OF THEIR office boys,
THAN THEY are in the schools,
WHERE THEIR children go.
AND MUCH more interested,
IN THE clerks they have,
THAN THEY are in the teachers,
WHO TEACH their children.
AND I know men
WHO HAVE put up no
TO RAISE the salary,
OF THE football coach,
AND DIDN'T care a hang,
WHAT HAPPENED to the teachers.

WADSWORTH
SUPPORT
ASKED

Editor Boston American:

The Military Training Camps Association of the United States was formed after the Russian Revolution's Plattsburg Camps in 1915 had been held. Among its most important objects is that of assisting to educate the people in the advisability of adopting a system of Universal Military Training in this country.

As the matter stands at present we desire to impress upon the people at large and also upon their representatives in the Senate and House, the fact that a bill known as the Wadsworth Army Bill should be passed. This bill contains a section providing for a four months' training period for the male youth of the country, who are physically capable of undergoing it, before reaching the age of twenty-one years.

Why 'not' arbitration of all quarrels, or is it necessary that certain matters should be fought out on the chest of the public?

Once in this country, gentlemen demanded the right to settle their quarrels with bullets, or swords. Their honor would not let them go before a judge. They killed and would call each other only, but even they now must let a judge decide. They may no longer do each other.

Once in the ancient days the progresser man went out with his belt of cut-throats. When he saw his enemy they started to fight. They would not hear of going to court. They were too high and mighty.

But that is past. Even nations, with their sense of honor, especially strong when they want to stand each other's territory, now talk of submitting quarrels to arbitration.

Why must quarrels between workmen and employers still be fought out in the old fashion of the duel, with the innocent public always hit?

Is it impossible to settle labor and employment quarrels before chosen judges?

They do it in New Zealand, Canada and elsewhere. Couldn't it be done in America?

That "one hundred per cent. American" expression is getting a little shabby. What does it mean exactly? We have one hundred per cent. American professors. In the last time they were the Stars and Stripes, and at night snuggled up in them.

We have one hundred per cent. American grafters, plenty of them.

What is "one hundred per cent. American"? This country is made up of Irish, English, Scotch, Welsh, German, Swedish, Danish, Norwegian, Russian, American, Italian, Lithuanian, Bulgarian, etc. Everywhere, the only real one hundred per cent. American, the Red Indian.

There "one hundred per cent. American" constitution. When you see your mouth shut when you see a foreigner, you are not a one hundred per cent. American. That seems to be one definition.

Why Not Arbitrate?
"100 Per Cent. Americanism"
Those Poor Widows
—By Arthur Brisbane—

Better news of the strike as this is written, and it was time for better news. What time is it now for the rest of the world, if this country, where politicians were miraculously checked by the armistice before they had half finished their stealing, is not able to go ahead intelligently?

England for her government coughs this year, including the interest on her gigantic public debt, will spend about five billions. In spite of that, she is planning to so modify her income tax as to let those that can afford it pay more and make the load lighter for married men with children. Here we allow a man for each child a deduction from income tax of about enough to buy a Winter overcoat and a Summer suit.
